

Martijn de Valk

Creative Front-end Developer

Let me introduce myself

I am a creative front-end developer based in Naarden, The Netherlands with over ten years' industry experience. I have worked for multiple digital agencies like Poort80, DigitasLBi, eFocus, and Valtech on a wide variety of projects for local and global clients.

My core values are structured code, attention to detail, and an understanding of my clients' needs. I also love working and discovering new technologies such as CSS Grid level 2, scroll snapping, variable fonts, SVG animation, Vue.js, React and all the cool stuff that ES6 is bringing us. I specialize in front-end web development where my interest is more towards the creative part of this discipline. I would rather call myself a UI Engineer than a Javascript developer who leans more against the backend part of an application. I prefer to work on a nice UI rather than tie up boring business logic. I mostly use javascript purely for presentation purposes only, therefore I find libraries like GreenSock, Anime.js great to work with, I am also a big fan of Vue.js because this framework perfectly integrates into projects and is easy to combine with other javascript libraries.

Current status

I currently work at DEPT Agency, here I work together with several disciplines and together we maintain various platforms. We generally work Agile according to the Scrum framework.

Hobbies

In addition to my full-time job as a father of two kids, I like to photograph with my Digital SLR camera and regularly play computer games on my Nintendo switch. I have also been discovering a new hobby lately and that is FPV drone racing.

Besides coding I love photography, I got my own small business "plat vlak photography" started in 2015.
